

Sierra's Sunrise

By

Joan Nicholes

Diamond Reeves is a paid escort. He gets paid for escorting beautiful women anywhere they want to go. But he'd never met a woman like Sierra. Though beautiful, intelligent, and remarkably independent, lurking beneath the shadows in her eyes, Diamond can see a haunting sadness. He makes it his passion to take away the sadness and fill her heart and her life with much joy.

Sierra Daniels was a loner. And she liked it that way. She'd suffered much heartache and loss in one lifetime. She wasn't willing to open her heart to anyone again.

Until she met Diamond Reeves. They were as different as day and night. At least she thought so. But as she spends time with him, she discovers they aren't so different after all.

Can she forget her past and forge a bright future with a man like Diamond Reeves when she has nothing to offer him?